

Randy Snow

Most people have the same attitude towards safety that Randy Snow had. Until that is, he was critically injured in a farming accident, which left him without the use of his legs.

Since then he has gone on to be a Fortune 500 speaker, successful in business and one of the most successful gold medal wheelchair athletes in history. He is the only Paralympian inducted into the Olympic Hall of Fame.

But his life proves that it doesn't always happen to the other person. Randy's message will dramatically change your attitude towards safety and remind you to accept responsibility for your own safety at work and at home.

Featured on CNN, ESPN, and in USA Today, Randy is a published author, a nationally recognized sales associate, and the president of an achievement company called NoXQS, Inc. (no excuse), Inc.

Please welcome Randy Snow.
